FOREST SERVICE — U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN

AT THE END OF THE ROAD

What's your pleasure in natural outdoor recreation? To be tall in the saddle? To canoe the Voyageurs' Highway? To saunter a forest interpretive trail? To climb an Ozarkian ridge? To ski a New England slope? To photograph wildlife? Hunt? Fish trout waters? To enjoy an evening campfire with the family? A picnic pause in the greenshade of pines?

The three Lake States of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan; the five Central States of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Iowa; the six Eastern States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia; and the six New England States of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine . . . this is the Eastern Region of the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

With all of the Great Lakes; two great Rivers, the Mississippi and the Ohio; the Appalachian Mountain chain; numerous inland lakes, rivers, and streams, and blessed by a temperate climate, the Eastern Region is one of the Nation's great outdoor playgrounds.

Seventeen National Forests are in the heart of this vacationland. This booklet is designed to acquaint you with the facilities, attractions, and locations of the developed recreation sites within the Forests.

The three-million acre Superior National Forest in Minnesota contains the Nation's only canoe wilderness: one-million acres of portage-linked lakes, islands, woods, and crags which form the tapestry of a region that can be seen today almost as it was in the heyday of the French voyageurs. Your outdoor pastime needn't be confined to the Boundary Waters Canoe Area: enjoy the other two million acres of the Superior.

The Great Gulf Wilderness Area of 5,400 acres, in the White Mountain National Forest of New Hampshire, is a glacial valley reaching skyward to the eastern slopes of the Presidential Range. The area offers a retreat into the solitude and beauty of the wild New England forest once known only to our forefathers.

Recreation is only a road away and all roads in the Region lead to a National Forest, to the waterways of the northwoods plumed with conifers and hardwoods, to the oak and pine, river-laced, rolling-hill country of the southlands, to the spruce and fir-covered crags of the northeast.

At journey's end you'll find simple and well-designed recreation sites and facilities. Family-camping units, for example, are usually screened off by vegetation to give you relative privacy, and are generally situated close to water for swimming, boating, fishing. Drinking water may be piped, or drawn from a well.

There's a parking spur and a tent pad, a table and a fireplace. Trailers can be accommodated if they don't exceed 22 feet. Electrical and toilet hook-ups are not provided for trailers. Arrive early. Camp and picnic units are available only on a first-come, first-served basis and cannot be reserved in advance.

Outdoorsmen are known as friendly, courteous, and considerate people. Most of them observe and honor these commonsense requirements when camping or picnicking in developed recreation sites:

One family — one unit

Keep pets on a leash; they won't stray

Load a camera — not a gun

Leave a good impression — not mutilated trees

Leave worry behind — and garbage in the receptacles

Entrance and user fees are charged at certain designated recreational areas. The charges are in compliance with the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, whose purpose is to acquire additional public recreational areas. For specific information, contact the appropriate Forest Supervisor's office, District Ranger Station, or see instructions posted at the selected recreation sites.

Recreational opportunities are many and varied in each National Forest. Free brochures describing them are available upon request. Write the appropriate Forest Supervisor's office; addresses are listed on the inside back cover.

These National Forests are yours — to enjoy. Please keep them clean, and protect them from fire.

Come again!

The Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, is dedicated to the principle of multiple use management of the Nation's forest resources for sustained yields of wood, water, forage, wildlife, and recreation. Through forestry research, cooperation with the States and private forest owners, and management of the National Forests and National Grasslands, it strives — as directed by Congress — to provide increasingly greater service to a growing Nation.
